NZ is a young country, but there is a wealth of history and heritage to engage those with an interest in history and stories. Buildings that have been repurposed into pubs or hotels, mansions, churches or shopping precincts are windows with a view back in time. The South Island's heritage is underpinned by the hard life of the gold rush days, contrasted by high society, and the hard-graft of the pioneer farmers and settlers. This package explores some stunning regions overlaid by history soundbites to enhance your glimpses of a uniquely NZ past.
