Atlantic Canada

Time stands still in the Canadian Maritimes, preserving a way of life that honours the land and sea and a cultural mix of early French, Irish, Scottish and English influences. Fishing hamlets in Nova Scotia celebrate their rich seafaring heritage. The Bay of Fundy is home to the highest tides in the world. In one moment you can see the humpback whales and the next you can walk the ocean floor. Cape Breton is renowned for its dramatic landscape that echoes the Highlands and the great shorelines of Brittany in France. Prince Edward Island is truly a story book setting where you'll find picturesque Victorian farmsteads and green rolling meadows as seen in the fabled 'Anne of Green Gables'. Experience the Cabot Trail, a serpentine highway carved in to the side of mountains with unforgettable ocean vistas. Experience New Foundland where the some of the oldest rocks in the world are found. L'anse aux Meadows is the only proven site of a Viking habitation in North America, see reconstructed sod houses and learn the history of these sea warriors. Rich in wildlife, history and folklore, immerse yourself in the lure and lore of this down-to-earth, mystical world of mountain lakes, eagles, whales, fishermen, and the sea.

Canada Traveller has a range of escorted and self-drive itineraries available for Atlantic Canada. Contact us for details.

Fishing and Wildlife Resorts on Vancouver Island

Vancouver Island is the gateway to some fantastic local salmon fishing. The Campbell River Region has been inhabited for at least 8000 years and with good reason. The abundance of salmon and other bounty from the sea such as cod, clams, oysters and crab have always been an integral part of the appeal. Experienced local guides and captains will show you the hot spots where Chinook salmon naturally gather. There is rarely a time when an intrepid angler needs to retire his rod for lack of opportunity. Canada Traveller has 3 or 4 day drive-in or fly-in packages that include the fishing gear, cleaning of the catch and accommodation.
