

River cruises that last days.

Memories that last a lifetime.

Assam Bengal Navigation is the original cruise operator on India's Brahmaputra and Ganges Rivers, having navigated these mighty waterways since 2003. A world away from the more well-trodden roads of India, the eastern corner remains untouched by mass tourism. From dancing monks to one-horned rhinos, colonial vestiges to terracotta temples, remote villages to bustling cities, travelling by boat opens up a treasure trove of history, culture, wildlife and religion. The cruise may last only days, but the memories will last a lifetime.

SHIPS

ABN CHARAIDEW II

Length: 44.5m

Breadth: 11m

Cabins: 18 (2 deluxe, 12 twin/double, 4 queen)

There is a comfortable saloon and bar, dining room, a big open sundeck, gym, and a small spa onboard which offers a wide range of treatments.

ABN SUKAPHA

Capacity: 24 guests

In an effort to conserve India's forests, her 12 upper deck cabins are bamboo-paneled, air-conditioned and roomy with en suite bathrooms and large, sliding windows that offer panoramic views of the river.

ABN RAJMAHAL

Length: 50m

Cabins: 22 (18 twin/double, 4 single)

The décor is stylish and fresh with touches of colonial elegance, brought to life by traditional Indian-inspired designs on hand-blocked cotton fabrics. All cabins on ABN Rajmahal have French balconies.

ABN CHARAIDEW I

Cabins: 12 (10 twin-bedded, 2 double bedded with en-suite)

ABN Charaidew I is a heritage passenger vessel from the 1970s that's been completely renovated to provide guests an experience of tasteful riverine living. She is purposefully intimate in size, so that guests can rediscover what it means to stay in serenity, far from the bustle of life on shore.
